The poster features a vibrant illustration of a diverse family (father, mother, and three children) standing in a park. In the background, other park users are shown: a person on a bicycle, two people sitting on a bench, and a child playing with a dog. The top of the poster includes logos for the City of Los Angeles, the Bureau of Engineering, and Councilmember Jose Huizar. The main title 'SIXTH STREET PARC COMMUNITY MEETINGS' is prominently displayed in a yellow banner. Below this, two colored boxes provide details for the Tuesday and Wednesday meetings. A green bus icon and text indicate limited parking and the availability of Spanish translation. The central message 'YOUR VOICE COUNTS!' is followed by an invitation for community input. Contact information for Mary Nemick is provided in a yellow box. At the bottom, a map shows the project location along the LA River, between the 101 Freeway and the Harbor Freeway, with labels for various streets like E 6th St, Anderson St, and Clarence St.
